

COLLEGE COED BADLY INJURED IN COLLISION

Miss Susan Rumberger, 21, Phillipsburg, a student at Gettysburg College, suffered a cerebral concussion, multiple lacerations of the face and knees, lips and extremities and lost a tooth when an auto in which she was a passenger was involved in an accident four miles east of here on the Lincoln Highway at 12:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. She was admitted by ambulance as a patient at the Warner Hospital.

State police said the crash occurred when James R. Gallo, 20, 65 W. Middle St., a college student, drove into the center lane of the three-lane highway to pass a tow truck near the Hansford Sneed Body Shop. At the same time the tow truck attempted to turn and Gallo went into the third lane to avoid collision with the tow truck and collided with a truck driven by C. C. Brown, 50, Dover R. 2. Damage to the truck was estimated at $200. The car was almost demolished.

The accident was one of two investigated by state police during the last 24 hours.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning 1 1/2 miles north of Abbottstown on a legislative route Gerald O'Dell, 23, York R. 3, ran into a ditch and caused $600 damage to his vehicle. He was unhurt.

O'Dell told police he was driving north when he saw an animal of some sort crossing the road. He attempted to avoid hitting the animal by swerving to the right and the vehicle went into the ditch.

CHURCHMEN BLOCK MOVE TO SCRAP ULC PLAN

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
TORONTO (CP)—A vast program for pyramidizing controls within the United Lutheran Church in America was over its first major hurdle today. But the controversial plan faced extended debate in the church's 19th biennial convention under way here.

Convention delegates began considering the proposals point by point after blocking a move to scrap the whole plan for the time being.

Opposition to convention action on the program, described as "the most momentous in the history of the church," developed last night in a motion by the Rev. J. J. Scherer of Richmond, Va.

He advocated turning the entire 118-page plan back to a committee for another two-year study, declaring that on a matter "so vital," more time is needed to "study and pray."

"Stymie And Guz"

But the Rev. W. Carl Satre, Toledo, Ohio, who heads the commission which drew up the plan and sent it to delegates two months ago, called this an effort to "stymie and gag the convention at the beginning."

The Rev. Dr. Dwight Putman, Harrisburg, Pa., president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod, argued that the convention should "deal with each part" of the plan on its merits—instead of shelving the whole thing.

"On some items it is perfectly obvious that we can agree on them" (Continued on Page 10)

Local Firemen Head Lebanon Paraders

The Gettysburg Fire Department led the parade this afternoon at Lebanon.

Present for the annual State Firemen's Convention parade the local firemen, who two years ago won the state championship title, were placed at the head of the procession, immediately behind the marshal. Accompanying the 65 members of the local company in line of march was the Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg. The company is defending champion in its classification.

There will be no parade at last year's convention.

Classified Ad And Honest Boy Produce Ring

One classified advertisement in The Gettysburg Times produced a lady's diamond ring and an honest boy.

Sometime Monday Mrs. Monroe Delling, 55, West Middle St., lost a lady's diamond ring. She had been at three places and thought the ring was lost at one of them. She placed a classified advertisement in The Times Wednesday. Shortly after that edition went to press Mrs. Delling had her ring.

Eugene Patterson, 11, of 104 West High St., nearly ran over the ring at the Acme parking lot.

He waited until The Times was published and read the "Lost" column on the classified and found the owner of the ring. He immediately returned it and received a reward.

7 OBJECTIVES ARE OUTLINED FOR NEPH WEEK

the afternoon of the accident. The Eddie's Cleaners driver told the jury that he had not been "in a hurry" to get back to Littlestown on the night of the accident because his wife was in Hanover shopping and he planned to pick her up there at 9 o'clock that night.

Clouser Hurt In Crash

He was about 125 feet behind the bus when he saw the stop light go on, he testified, and could have stopped in his lane, but failing to see the Newcomb car coming from the opposite direction, he decided to pass, according to his testimony to the jury.

Clouser said he had been operating a car for 11 years and had been driving for Eddie's Cleaners for 3 1/2 years. He was interrogated on whether Eddie's Cleaners had placed governors on its trucks after the crash and whether the proprietor had lectured the drivers of his trucks to be more safety minded on the highways after the accident. In response to Dr. Christ's questioning, Clouser said he had not heard of either the lecture nor of governors on the trucks. He said that he had not returned to employment at the Cleaners since the accident. He said his leg had been in a cast for seven weeks after the crash as a result of injuries.

Gerris Boggers, Dunbar, W. Va., operator of the Greyhound bus, told the jury he was enroute to Baltimore. About a mile from the scene of the accident, he said, he saw a car operated by Thomas Eckenrode, Littlestown R. 2, on the highway some distance ahead of him. Noticing that his bus was traveling faster than the car, and believing that Eckenrode was about to turn off the highway, he said he lifted his foot from the accelerator to let the heavy bus slow gradually. As a bus driver, he added, he seeks to avoid applying the brakes to avoid jarring the passengers. Boggers said he did not think that he had touched the brakes at any time and did not believe that the stop light on the bus would have come on "unless there was a short or something like that."

He added that he did not see Eddie's truck behind the bus until he saw it attempt to pass and viewed the collision of the truck and car about 50 feet to the rear of the bus.

Saw Crash In Mirror

The bus driver said he stopped after the crash and went back to the scene. Mrs. Newcomb was in the operator's seat of the auto, he said.

Eckenrode told the jury he had entered the Littlestown-Gettysburg Rd. about a mile from the scene of the accident from another dirt road, and then had turned off the highway into a side road and had not witnessed the accident. The bus was some distance behind his car when he turned, he added.

George Frownfelter, Littlestown R. 2, testified he had driven out of the lane into which Eckenrode turned, a few moments before Eckenrode entered the dirt road. As he was going toward Littlestown, Frownfelter added, he saw the Newcomb car pass him at a normal rate of speed. A few moments later he saw in his rear view mirror a cloud of dust at the rear of the bus when the collision occurred. He had not seen the Eddie's Cleaners truck prior to the crash, he said.

Policeman Testifies

State Policeman James A. Treas told of going to the scene and finding that Bianconi and Mrs. Newcomb had been removed to the Warner Hospital, Clouser and his brother were lying on "a pile of clothes" near the badly damaged truck. The truck had apparently struck the car on an angle. When he arrived he found the car off the east side of the road, on the berm, and the truck almost at right angles with its front at the edge of the road against the car.

He estimated damage as $1,500 to the car and $700 to the truck. Both front ends were smashed.

Larry Clouser, Littlestown R. D., 13-year-old brother of Bernard Clouser, appeared at the inquest walking with canes. The youngster suffered a fracture of the right thigh, lacerations of the knee and a ruptured spleen in the crash. Larry's spleen was removed the night of the crash, Dr. Bruce N. Wolff told the jury.

Show Accident Pictures

Dr. Wolff said x-rays made recently showed that the youth had not yet completely recovered from the injuries. Larry told the jury his biggest hope is to get back to school soon. He added that his brother had "picked him up" about 8:30 that morning to help him with the cleaning route. "Every summer," said Larry, "I help my brother deliver pants, and coats and laundry."

Larry said he knew nothing of the accident. He had been looking out the side window of the truck and did not even see the Greyhound bus ahead, the youngster said.

Walter B. Lane showed pictures taken at the scene shortly after the crash.

D. A. Assists

Dr. Wolff described the numerous injuries to Mrs. Newcomb which resulted in her death "principally from the fractured skull" the morning after the accident. Bianconi, Dr. Crist said, died of a fractured skull before arrival at the hospital.

Members of the coroner's jury included G. Henry Roth, Mrs. Joseph Bushey, Harold Miller, William Mumper, Harold Ecker and Pauline Miller. Attorney S. M. Raffensperger represented Clouser at the inquest. Also present for the hearing were Attorneys Richard A. Brown and Donald M. Swope. District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter assisted Dr. Crist in the questioning.

The group is to meet this evening at the church to practice for Friday night's program. A. H. Good will be master of ceremonies. Tickets at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children are available from members of the class or may be obtained at the church the night of the performance.

2 HORSES DIE; 7 TAKEN SICK

Two saddle horses quartered at the Winebrenner Farm died Wednesday after five others taken ill on Monday are improving. Recovery seems certain for all but one which remains in a serious condition.

Some unidentified type of poison is blamed for the illness and deaths. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, owner of the farm, said all the 17 horses and five ponies stabled at his farm had been receiving the same feed and seven were taken ill Monday.

The two that died were owned by Attorney Charles W. Wolf of New Oxford and D. A. Thomas, York. The horses were valued at $400 to $500 each.

Autopsies were performed on both animals and results of those examinations along with samples of the feed the horses had been getting have been sent to state laboratories at Harrisburg for analysis by Dr. James Martin, veterinarian.

The animals that were stricken were in various sections of the barn and Mr. and Mrs. Winebrenner said he has not given credence to a suggestion that the animals may have been poisoned deliberately. Other stables in nearby towns and cities have had similar experiences, he said.

Today's Talk

EXPECT THE BEST

I am of the opinion that the large percentage of people start out their day with the hope, and often the desire, that something good is to happen during the day—and so, to give them confidence and assurance, they have trained themselves to expect the best.

There is nothing like being prepared to meet any emergency. By expecting the best you are able to handle the worst, should it come. And should the best not come, you have lost nothing and stored up faith and confidence for the future. People who are always expecting the best, and working to make that possible, give exercise to all their physical and spiritual powers.

You have to keep piling up faith to finally appreciate its magic and its power. It is this faith that unexpectedly brings about the best that you expect! It's such a simple and sure process, when once you have stirred and steeled yourself into an atmosphere of hopeful expectation.

There are those who are forever expecting the worst. They talk about it, tell just how something is going to happen, and keep building up worries in connection with what may happen, but which is most liable never to happen! Once having tested the positive course, however, you will stay by it forever—and always expect the best.

Misfortune becomes the lot of us all, to some degree or other, and at some time in our lives, but all this is something for us to face with courage and in good heart, without complaint. Struggle, disappointment and even temporary failure, can all be handled and we be the gainer in the end. We must bear in mind, at all times, that the best, in some form, is sure to appear, fulfilling our expectation.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Little Surprises." Protected, 1954, George Mathew Adams Service

Just Folks

THE PRICE
If skill were something men could buy.
The rich would have a full supply.
Were faith and courage market
wares.
They're cornered be by millionaires.

Though not on counter, shelf or stall.
The price is in the reach of all.
Wherever they are truly sought
By constant striving they are bought.

Course is of the mind and heart;
The will, when stopped, again to start.
The poorest youth may have a share
Denied to many a millionaire.

Faith both in God and self desired Cannot be borrowed, bought or hired.
This, when the heart is sorely tried
Must be, when needed, self-supplied.

Orchestra Cancels
Opening Concert

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The Philadelphia Orchestra, unable to reach a contract agreement with its musicians, has cancelled the opening of its 55th season, scheduled for Friday.

Manager Harl McDonald and a spokesman for Local 77, American Federation of Musicians (AFL), said yesterday that chief point at issue was a union demand for a $10-weekly increase over the present $14 minimum for musicians. The cancellation of the opening performance is the first in the orchestra's history. The Saturday performance was also postponed.

BLUEPRINT NEW TYPE OF GERMAN SOLDIER, CODE

BY GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany (P)—What will the new German soldier be like? Many Europeans with memories of the regimented robots who jack-booted into their countries in the last war are asking that since the nine-power conference agreed to the Office of War Information.

West Germany's military planners have drawn up a blueprint for an entirely new type of German soldier. They say he will have the dignity of civil rights, will be treated with the dignity of a democratic citizen—and a watchful Parliament will see that he is not bullied.

New Military Code

Former trade unionist Theodor Blank, West German defense commissioner, has drafted a new military code for the 500,000 men Bonn will provide for Western defense. Some old-time German officers snort when the code is mentioned and say it will produce an army of softies. But Blank has the support of the rank and file of the veterans' organizations and most members of Parliament.

Blank's code confines military law to purely military offenses. Otherwise the soldier will be subject to civil law. It drastically reduces the powers of arbitrary arrest which junior officers of the old Wehrmacht once possessed.

A soldier cannot be kept in the guardroom for more than 24 hours without a charge being preferred.

Only On Paper Now

The new system, as yet only on paper, provides for an entirely novel character—a representative to air enlisted men's grievances.

Soldiers will be required to salute only generals and officers of their own unit. In barracks one salute per officer a day, on first meeting, will be deemed sufficient.

Drill is to be kept to a minimum, in favor of a maximum of technical training.

Provide Watchdogs

Once their initial training is over, men will be allowed to wear civilian clothes off duty. Present

Warriors, Indians To Take Warpath On GHS Gridiron Friday Night; Rated Even

Is there a difference between Warriors and Indians?

An answer to that question will be forthcoming Friday evening when the Gettysburg High Warriors meet the Waynesboro Indians on the local gridiron at 8 o'clock.

When Waynesboro and Washington Township Jointure consolidated last year it was decided a new nickname would be adopted for athletic teams and "Indians" was chosen. Prior to that Waynesboro had been known as the Golden Tornado.

Friday's game has all the earmarks of a struggle between two evenly matched contestants and should attract a large crowd.

Coach Howard Shoemaker today reported his Warrior squad will be at full strength for the game. All four lads who received minor injuries at Hanover last week have fully recovered and will be ready for action.

The Warrior mentor anticipates a close game that can go either way. "After playing four strong opponents I feel we are now meeting a team more in our class," Shoemaker said today. "I am looking forward to a close, interesting game. Waynesboro will have only a slight weight advantage on the line. I believe we have a good chance providing my boys play heads-up ball."

Gettysburg's opening lineup will probably be as follows: Dearing and Gorman, ends; Bondurant and Weaver, tackles; Staley and Ted Crouse, guards; Westerdahl, center; Weishaar, Tonsel, Williams and Furney, backs.

In the doldrums athletically for years, Waynesboro has taken a new lease on life via the combining with the Jointure and expects to regain its once top rating in athletic circles, if not this year, certainly within the near future.

Piloting Waynesboro for the first time is Francis X. "Chubb" Brady, who guided Washington Twp. to two straight titles in the Laurel Conference. Brady took with him to Waynesboro a number of star Township players which has resulted in a vastly improved squad. The combining of the squads has already proved that the Indians will be no pushover as in previous seasons.

Among former Washington Twp. players certain to see action again Gettysburg are Gordon Stuckey, Joe Benchoff, Don Shank, backs; Wib Lohman, 200-pound tackle, and Barry Stevenson, end.

Other Indians listed for action include: Ronnie Rook, Gary Barkdoll, Don Wolfe, Bill Ford, Dave Fisher and Bob Nagy, backs; Frank Mort, Merlin Shuey, tackles; Pete Eden, Kay Yingling, Jimmy Jones, guards; Dean Wolfe and Jim Means, centers, and Ed Doyle, end.

Waynesboro has a 1-2 record. The Indians drubbed Shippensburg 20-6 to open their season and then lost to Martinsburg 27-0 and Carlisle 28-0 after giving good accounts of themselves.

Friday's game will not count in the South Penn Conference as Waynesboro is again operating as a non-competitor this season.

The top game in South Penn competition will take place at Hanover where the undefeated Night Hawks clash with Mechanicsburg, also unbeaten. Each has 1-0 records in league play and 4-0 season marks.

Another league game pits Chambersburg (1-3) against Hershey, also (1-4), at Hershey. Hershey has lost one league contest to Mechanicsburg, while Chambersburg, co-champions with Hershey last season, will be making its start.

Other games involving nearby teams include Northumberland at Carlisle, Lancaster Catholic at Middletown on Friday, and Bolling Springs at New Cumberland Saturday afternoon.

DELONE FROSH TO WEST YORK

The Delone Catholic High School Freshman football team won its second victory in as many starts by defeating West York on the latter's field Wednesday, 6-6.

A three-yard smash by Earl Mann produced the only score of the game in the third period. The scoring play had been set up by a 30-yard dash around right end by Lloyd Washington. Mike Sheaffer attempted to go off-tackle for the extra point but was halted.

Next Thursday evening Waynesboro Junior High will play at McSherrystown.

Mobile Art Hits Ceiling As Decorations And Toys

By JOE MILLER

The Associated Press

The distraught husband rushed into the kitchen.

"What's that thing hanging in the living room? It tried to bite me when I came in."

"Now, now," said his wife soothingly. "You must have bumped it into my mobile. I'm so glad you like it."

"But I didn't say . . ."

Made It Myself

"I made it myself for $1.78,"

she said, modestly smoothing her apron, "and it looks almost like one at the art gallery that's priced at a thousand dollars."

"A thousand dollars?" His voice rose to a squeak.

"They're really the SMARTEST thing in home decoration. And legitimate art, too." She faltered.

"I should think you would be proud of me, instead of . . ."

"Oh I am, I am, honest I am, honey."

Another Mobile

Thus the mobile entered another home to become a focal point of decoration and conversation.

Just what is this thing that startled the unsuspecting husband?

The mobile is a series of shapes connected by wire arms and related through balance, form and color. It does exactly what its name says it should: move.

The test of a good mobile, however, is not that it moves, but that its movement is more interesting than a heavy wobble. The slightest brush against its airy design should set off infinite chain reactions.

Because it is three-dimensional, unlike any other art form except sculpture, it is often called moving sculpture. It is also related to other forms since the wires resemble the lines in drawings and the pieces often look like abstract figures in paintings.

The mobile as we know it today was created in the early 1930's by Alexander Calder, American artist and sculptor. He is still constructing mobiles — so well that a

Calder mobile costs upwards of $2,000. One of the same size, designed by men with an eye to mass production, can be bought for around $10.

National Exhibit

At the recent important international exhibition at São Paulo, Brazil, Calder's mobiles were hailed as the most original, personal and "American" statement in modern art. He was given one of two rooms of honor, the other going to Picasso.

On a less arty level the mobile is moving along with increased momentum.

Besides home decoration, mobiles are used in business to display merchandise or just to attract attention. As toys, they are both fun and educational. As Christmas decorations, they have received perhaps their widest use.

Mobile Kits

The urge of both young and old to make their own is one of the kits which include materials and parts for several mobiles have hit the market; classes teaching children and adults to make mobiles are jammed at various art museums and public workshops.

John Lynch, who has been making mobiles since 1946 and has sold hundreds to stores and decorators, has an explanation. "In this modern age in which practically everything is done for us," he says, "people still like to do something for themselves."

Lynch even wrote a book, now in its second printing, called "How to Make Mobiles" (Studio-Crowell).

Not a Fad

The mobile is not a fad, Lynch thinks. "It's here to stay."

About using the mobile in home decoration he has some definite ideas. It can be hung anywhere there is enough room for it to move freely and not look closed in.

For the best effect, it should be hung at eye level or a little higher, generally to the side or corner of the room.

Mobiles are especially effective hung from the ceiling and in good design relationship to a painting, piece of sculpture or large plant.

They can hang with nothing under them or they can hang over furniture such as cabinets, pianos, room dividers.

Simple Technique

Lynch says the technique of making a mobile is very simple and used over and over again, whether in a mobile of 5 or 50 pieces. All the ingenuity should be used in the design, not in the mechanical process of putting the mobile together.

Further, Lynch insists, balance is not so important as the beginner might think. A mobile could be very well balanced and still be a clumsy composition. Composition is much more important than balance.

Above all, the mobile should look as much as possible as if it were moving through the air, not just hanging. A piece of paper tied to a string and tacked to the ceiling is not a mobile.

Chief Appeal

One of the mobile's chief appeals is that inexpensive materials, simple tools, little technical knowledge, but much ingenuity and imagination go into making the enchanting ornament.

About all the tools needed are pliers, wire cutter and scissors. If the pieces are to be painted, paints and a brush are required.

Basic materials, says Lynch are cardboard, wire (No. 12, 14, 16, and 18 gauge galvanized iron wire is cheapest, easiest to handle), nylon thread and tin sheet metal.

Material Unlimited

But there is almost no limit to material that can be used if it is not too heavy and will hold its shape: balsa wood, cork, plastic, glass, wooden beads, metal rings, metallic paper decorations like stars or notary seals, shapes cut from old tin cans.

After the mobile is completed

it is the time to paint the pieces.

Lynch thinks it's good if one color predominates with one or two others for accents; don't overlook white as a good accent. Shapes can be painted a different color on each side.

When you have finished your mobile, Lynch urges "set it in motion and it will come to life."

Charges 2nd House With Trespassing

CHICOOPEE, Mass., (R)—James J. Gloster says he barely can get into his home because somebody left a two-family house on his front lawn. Police investigating Gloster's complaint yesterday found construction men were moving the house as soon as possible but he declared: "I'm not going to let them move it now. I'm bringing court action against them for trespassing."

GOVERNMENT MAY URGE POWER SHOWDOWN SOON

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (R)—The Eisenhower administration showed signs today of pressing for a pre-election showdown on its politically touchy plan to feed private power into lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Calling yesterday for a review by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee of the Dixon-Yates group for power which would replace that which TVA supplies to AEC plants, Dixon-Yates would build a 107-million-dollar steam plant at West Memphis, Ark., and the electricity generated would be served to TVA customers over TVA lines.

Opponents of the plan, known as the Dixon-Yates contract, raised new protests of "skullduggery" and "scandalous."

Reports circulated yesterday that the contract had been approved. An aide said Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) had received word to that effect. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), government partner in the proposed deal, said only the contract "has not been signed."

Careful Livestock Handling Stressed As Means Of Cutting Waste And Financial Losses

By FRANK S. ZETTLE

Adams County Farm Agent

Every day enough beef cattle and other livestock are bruised, crippled or die enroute to market to supply the daily meat requirements of a half million people. Careless handling takes a daily toll of almost 100 tons of beef, lamb and pork. These losses are reflected in lower livestock prices to the producer.

Unfortunately, most bruising occurs in the region of the highest priced cuts. In hogs, for instance, over half of the bruises in the entire carcass occur on the hams. In cattle, nearly half occur in the loins. Bruises cost money because bruised meat cannot be eaten and extra labor is required to trim out damaged areas.

Some Simple Rules

Bruising and crippling caused by carelessness can be reduced by observing the following simple rules:

Use canvas slapper, not clubs or canes, when moving livestock.

Eliminate protruding nails and broken boards from fences, doorways and trucks.

Remove machinery and junk from the feedlot or barnyard.

Remove horns from cattle—preferably when they are young calves.

Bed trucks properly. Always use sand to prevent slippery floors.

Load carefully and don't hurry livestock up chutes and through narrow doors.

Use partitions to separate sheep, calves, hogs and different weights of cattle.

Don't feed animals heavily before loading. Livestock travel best on a light fill.

Protect livestock from the weather while trucking. In summer provide adequate ventilation and shade. In winter, guard against too much cold wind and provide plenty of bedding.

Drive carefully and avoid sudden stops.

Shipping Fever

One of the diseases which worries livestock men during the fall and winter months is shipping fever... or in more accurate terms, hemorrhagic septicemia.

Livestock are susceptible to this disease the year around, but during cold weather, there seems to be more trouble. Mishandling, neglect, or exposure of animals in transit are the chief causes... and young animals seem to be more susceptible.

Over-crowding and lack of rest, water and proper shelter lower the resistance of most animals, with the result they become sick while being shipped or shortly after their arrival at their destination.

Shipping fever is infectious. It may affect healthy animals if they are exposed. Therefore, all livestock brought to any farm should be isolated from other livestock for a few days until all danger is past.

Observe Safety Rules

Clogging, when caused by a heavy

CALLS GUARDS' STRIKE A FLOP

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—A walkout of guards at the Indiana State Prison failed to affect the smooth operation of the big penitentiary today, and a state official said, "The whole strike is a flop."

The opinion came from Hugh P. O'Brien, chairman of the State Correction Department, who added that the walkout "had fizzled out."

However, pickets paraded for the second day at the prison's two main gates, and Merlin Griffith, vice president of the International Guards Union, said, "We'll whip O'Brien one way or another."

The guards at the big prison, which houses 2,274 inmates, are seeking a 40-hour week, improvement of working conditions and reinstatement of four guards fired last week. State officials, however, have refused to meet with the union, citing a state policy against official recognition of a union at a state institution.

RECRUITING OF BRIGHT CUBS IS URGED ON PRESS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The need for Pennsylvania newspapers to recruit "bright young men and women" was cited by the head of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn. today.

Theodore A. Serrill, PNPA general manager, said such recruiting should be carried on "without letting up so as to continue this industry in its position as the primary medium for dissemination of news and advertising."

Serrill reported to the PNPA's executive committee on the eve of the 30th annual association convention opening two day sessions here tomorrow.

He said that newspaper publishing and printing industries continue to be "ranked fourth in value of products, fifth in wages and salaries and sixth in number of employees among all classifications of industry in the state, including mining and manufacturing."

Staff Competition

Serrill said this condition continues despite the competition of other media that have come forward in the electronics and automobile age.

One measure taken by the PNPA to assuage the influx of new blood into the newspaper industry, Serrill said, is the awarding of $2,700 in scholarships funds for the advertising sequence of the Department of Journalism at the Pennsylvania State University.

Individual scholarships also are being provided by newspaper publishers and commercial printers in greater numbers than ever, Serrill said.

Many Attend Seminars

Forty-nine newspapers or one-third of the daily and Sunday newspaper members of PNPA have sent men and women to participate in seminars of the American Press Institute at Columbia University during the last eight years, Serrill added.

The PNPA general manager also reported a "tremendous rebuilding and reequipment" of newspaper plants to meet the needs of Pennsylvania's expanding economy and growing population.

More than half the daily newspaper plants in Pennsylvania, and nearby Delaware and Maryland, have been expanded, remodeled or completely replaced since World War II, he said.

NAB SUSPECT IN DUAL MURDER

WIND GAP, Pa. (AP)—Police reported today that Daniel Falcone of Bangor, wanted for questioning in the murder of Justice of the Peace Matthew Daneker and his wife Mildred, had been apprehended near here.

The couple was shot to death at point blank range as they left their car to enter Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church. They were to attend a church service and sing in the church choir.

First reports said Falcone was apprehended by Wind Gap policeman W. L. Templeton as he was walking along the road at the community's boundary line. Templeton reported Falcone offered no resistance. It was not reported immediately whether he was armed.

Templeton reportedly was taking Falcone to the Shoenersville, Conn., in 1744 when Joseph Higley opened a production plant.

Connecticut claims that the U.S. Steel Industry started in Simsbury, Conn., in 1744 when Joseph Higley opened a production plant.

WILL ENFORCE STATE'S PURE STREAMS LAW

SOMERSET, Pa. (UPI)—Sen. George M. Leader, Democratic candidate for governor, promised today that if elected he would carry out "rigid enforcement of our pure streams laws without discrimination or favoritism."

"We must and shall enhance the value of Pennsylvania's natural waterways as recreational attractions, not only to our own people, but to the thousands of out-of-state visitors" he said in a prepared speech for delivery here.

Leader noted that the out-of-state visitors "bring with them many tourist dollars which will be a tremendous aid to communities throughout the state."

He declared that the pure streams program was instituted in 1930 in Pennsylvania by the Democratic Party.

Leader: "SOP TO DONORS"

"In a speech at Lewisburg the other day, my Republican opponent, Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, tried to confer upon his party full credit for creation of the state's anti-pollution laws," he said, adding:

"Actually, pollution was condemned for years by the Republican leadership as a sop to the big party contributions."

Pennsylvania sportsmen are entitled to full protection of the state so that recreational facilities for fishing and other outdoor activities are not endangered by the peculiar game of politics apparently endorsed by Mr. Wood."

"As governor, I shall see that they have that protection," Leader added.

SWINGS TO LEADER

Dr. William D. McClelland, Allegheny County coroner who opposed Leader in the primary, urged full support last night for Leader by all Democrats.

Speaking to the Armstrong County Democratic Committee at Ford City, McClelland said he has found Leader to be "in accord with the principles for which I stood."

"Therefore, I freely and earnestly ask my friends who were kind enough to vote for me for nomination for governor to give the same generous measure of support to

NEVADA COURT GETS VOTE CASE

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Nevada Democrats carried to the State Supreme Court today their battle for an election in November to fill the two-year balance of the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term.

The high court arranged to hear an appeal on an injunction won yesterday by the GOP against putting senatorial candidates on the November ballot. The court indicated it would rule swiftly.

With the Republican majority in the Senate only three seats, the legal maneuvering has taken on added drama and injected fuel into an otherwise lusterless Nevada election campaign.

At stake is whether Republican Gov. Charles Russell's appointment to the Senate, Reno Rep. Ernest Brown—an Eisenhower supporter—will fill out the term or whether an election will be held next month to decide the successor.

Leader: "SOP TO DONORS"

At Roaring Springs, Leader promised that if elected he would begin a "wholesale cleanup" of the Public Utility Commission.

He promised a new PUC law "to slap the brakes on excess power charges now driving industry out of Pennsylvania and provide lower cost power for industry as a whole."

Trickery And Fraud

At Hollidaysburg, the Democratic candidate said that under its Republican Administration, Pennsylvania has an "out-moded system of handling state finances that invites trickery and fraud."

"The biggest fraud is the contention that sales tax dollars are used exclusively for public schools when revenue from this source goes into the general fund which it can be disbursed for a multitude of state uses," he said. "Due to the tangled financial affairs of the commonwealth," he said, "it is impossible for the sales tax champions to tell us within 100 million dollars on any given day where we actually stand financially in the operation of state government."

SAYS LEADER IS PLAYING ON MISERY, FEAR

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood said today that Sen. George M. Leader is "playing on the miseries and fears of the people with phony figures on employment."

"My Democratic opponent is so confused that he doesn't even know what he stands for," the Republican gubernatorial candidate said in a prepared speech here.

"He (Leader) is going up and down the state playing on the miseries and fears of our people with phony figures on employment and prophesying the most dire consequences unless he and his band of bosses gain control of our Commonwealth," Wood declared.

Referring to the York County candidate's record as a state senator, Wood said, "He can't deny that he voted and fought against the Loyalty Oath bill which requires public employees to swear or affirm to uphold our constitution."

"Can't Deny Vote"

"He can't deny that he voted and fought against financing of our public school system."

"He can't deny that he voted for all the things for which he now claims the money is going down the drain."

Wood then asked, "Is he (Leader) still against the loyalty oath for public employees? If he is elected will he ask the legislature to repeal that law? Where does he stand on financing the state government?"

At Harrisburg, Miles Horst, GOP state chairman, appointed four party leaders "who will carry out our campaign of truth to all four corners of the commonwealth during the final weeks of the election fight."

Appointed were William S. Liven- good, secretary of internal affairs; Gene D. Smith, commonwealth secretary; David M. Walker, labor and industry secretary, and State Sen. John M. Walker, Allegheny County.

"Truth Squad"

"The Republican party," he said, "is indeed fortunate to obtain the services of such men as these as

Six Are Ordained At UB Conference

RED LION, Pa. (AP)—Six delegates to the ministry were ordained today at the closing session of the 106th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The ordination service was conducted by Bishop George E. Epp, Harrisburg.

Ordained were: David H. Andrews, Newburg; Robert K. Feaster, Hagerstown, Md.; Roland E. Garvin, Taneytown, Md.; Wilson A. Shearer, Dillsburg; Martin W. A. Trosle, Dillsburg, and Walter H. Gable, York.

Selected trustees of the Conference's orphanage and home at Quincy, were Dr. Paul E. Shanahan, York; Harry Newcomer, Boonsboro, Md.; C. W. Winter, Red Lion, and Albert Watson, Carlisle.

members of our truth squad which will be touring the state in an effort to put an end once and for all to the big lie technique as employed by the Democrats and their propagandists."

At Scottdale last night, Wood said, "I am for a state public health program that provides for creation of countywide public health units."

However, he said, "I am not prepared to jam anything down anybody's throat."

This program is new, I think that if we push it, the public will realize in the not too far distance that it is in their best interest," he added.

Under the county health plan, approved by the 1951 Legislature, counties may decide by public vote whether to establish local health programs. The state must help finance such programs.

In a Uniontown address, Wood advocated construction of small impounding dams on the headwaters of every stream in Pennsylvania as a water conservation measure.

He said this also would raise the level of the commonwealth's underground water and "provide recreation for the little fellow."

The average American ate 71 per cent more ice cream in 1953 than in 1939 but only 37 per cent more beef and 6 to 7 per cent more milk.

MAP MAY OPEN DRILLING FOR NATURAL GAS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Geologic Survey today released to the general public a new map which it says will lead to "much more drilling" for natural gas in north central Pennsylvania.

face of the earth.

It was in the Oriskany sandstone from which came the vast yields of natural gas in the Leidy and the Driftwood-Benezette fields of north central Pennsylvania.

Gives Sand Depth

From the map you can tell how deep the sands are in any point covered by the map," Bolger said. "In addition you can tell the shape of the formation and faulting."

This information is invaluable to drilling operations and eliminates much of the guesswork in previous drilling.

Bolger said the map is accurate to within some 200 feet in depth calculations on the sandstone.

"But this is a small margin, since much of the sandstone is as far down as 8,000 feet," Bolger noted.

The map—actually in three sections—covers some two thirds of the state. It charts the Oriskany sandstone strata far below the sur-

Seek Additional Taxes From Those Who Reaped "Windfall" Profits From Postwar Housing

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (P)—Senate investigators called on Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews today to tell of the chances for collecting additional taxes on "windfall profits" from postwar housing projects.

William Simon, counsel for the Senate Banking Committee in its housing probe, said, "I can't help but feel there still are income tax problems" for some builders who reaped fat returns on projects financed with government-insured mortgages.

Additional testimony also is expected about the affairs of Ian Woodner, a Washington and New York builder, this time from Franklin D. Richards, former Federal Housing Administration (FHA) commissioner and now a real estate consultant.

Sought Hotel Projects

The dapper Woodner told the committee yesterday he had hired Richards, shortly after his resignation as FHA commissioner, to help him win FHA approval to operate a swank Washington apartment hotel project he was building.

The request was granted, despite a contrary FHA policy on its insured projects, in a letter signed in 1952 by Clyde L. Powell, ousted last April as assistant FHA commissioner after 20 years with the agency.

Jury Opens Probe

Woodner testified, however, that Powell himself opposed the decision but was overruled by his superiors. And he denied that in getting more than 40 million dollars of FHA-insured mortgages on various projects he ever paid any bribe to Powell.

Powell yesterday lost an effort to block a grand jury investigation of his activities with the housing agency.

A special grand jury opened a probe after Atty. Gen. Brownell announced it would "inquire into bribery and other criminal con-

TV ANTENNA INSURANCE TO BE SEPARATE

HARRISBURG (AP)—The next time you insure your house against fire or wind damage, it will cost you more to include your television antenna and mast.

The old dwelling insurance policy listing "extended coverage" will no longer include TV antennas.

Luther H. Williams, deputy insurance commissioner, said the state approved the change because of huge losses suffered by insurance companies as a result of windstorms this past summer.

"Windstorm last year and the year before forced the change in rates," he told a newsman. "It is so bad for some insurance companies that some of them claimed half of their payments were for damaged TV antennas."

The association of fire underwriters revised the rates with the approval of the insurance department.

Separate Policy

Under the new rate schedule which took effect Aug. 11, television antennas must be insured under a separate policy which costs $7.50 per $100 per year for full protection and on a $50 deductible policy, $1.50.

Extended coverage policies will continue to cost on an average of 10 cents per $100 per year for damage, other than to TV installations, suffered by windstorm, hail, riots and similar causes.

The Department said the cost of fire insurance for the entire home will remain the same. A $10,000 brick house in Harrisburg can be insured for $8 a year against fire and for an additional $10 a year, for extended coverage.

Old insurance policies in force with extended coverage still offered protection on TV exterior equipment. But when these policies are renewed, the household will have to pay extra for TV coverage.

KILLED BY AUTO

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—A Michigan woman, thrown from a car as it skidded on the rain-swept Pennsylvania Turnpike, fell to her death beneath the auto's wheels Tuesday.

She was Mrs. Emma Bleske, 68, of New Baltimore, Mich., police said. They said the car was driven by her husband, Herman, 72. He was unhurt.

About 5,800,000 square miles, or about 10.2 per cent of the earth's land area are covered with glacial ice.

CHILDREN SEE HUSBAND KILL WIFE AND SELF

BOONSBORO, Md. (AP)—An aircraft factory worker who had been fired from the plant where his wife also was working shot his wife to death Tuesday and then turned the gun on himself while his children looked on.

Dr. Samuel R. Wells, Washington County medical examiner, termed the death of Mrs. Margaret Catherine O'Neal, 38, murderer, and that of her husband Fred, 42, suicide.

State Trooper Clyde Tucker said Mrs. O'Neal had just returned from work at the Fairchild aircraft plant in Hagerstown and was in the kitchen with one of her five children preparing supper.

Was Fired For Drinking

Then, Tucker said: "O'Neal shot his wife with a single-barrel shotgun. She ran through the house and dropped dead on the front porch, before her other children."

O'Neal put the gun muzzle in his mouth and pulled the trigger. Tucker said the children, who range in age up to 19, told him

American consumers want more buying power in their food dollar and more convenience in food shopping, Ralph W. Burger, president of A & P Food Stores, declared today.

In a statement launching a month-long celebration of the oldest food chain's 95th anniversary, Mr.

Burger said that "fortunately greater convenience and greater economy go hand in hand as both spring from efficient operations."

As examples of developments contributing to both economy and convenience, he cited recent advances in the processing of canned foods, frozen foods, concentrates, and progress in packaging, freshness and quality controls.

"The American housewife is getting better food more appealingly offered than ever before," Mr.

Burger said. "As we look to the future, however, it is clear that the food industry must strive to keep the quality and service high and bring the cost down."

must provide them with a maximum of food value for every dollar they spend."

Mr. Burger pointed out that both the average family income and farm income, which rose rapidly during the inflationary war and postwar period, have leveled off and have even shown a slight decrease during the first half of this year. "Therefore," he said, "the food merchant has a real responsibility to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices."

MAN HELD IN WIFE'S DEATH

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Arline Rutan, 35, resident of the rural community of Brookside, 15 miles west of here, was shot to death early Wednesday. State police said they were holding her husband, Chester, 38, for the shooting.

Mrs. Rutan was visiting at the nearby home of her brother, Walter Klingel, when her husband arrived there and shot her, according to state police Sgt. Edward Leh. Rutan was taken into custody at the scene and removed to Blakely barracks of state police.

Dist. Atty. Carlon M. O'Malley and Lackawanna County detectives went to Brookside to investigate.

O'Malley said investigation showed Mr. and Mrs. Rutan had been shopping Tuesday night, dropped into a tavern on the way home in Clarks Summit and that a quarrel developed there. Mrs. Rutan telephoned her brother and he took her to his home by auto.

Later, O'Malley and state police said they learned, Rutan went to his home, got a revolver and then drove to Klingel's house, where he found his wife and shot her twice through the chest.

A-P HEAD SAYS PUBLIC WANTS MORE ECONOMY IN FOOD DOLLAR

American consumers want more buying power in their food dollar and more convenience in food shopping,

Ralph W. Burger, president of A & P Food Stores, declared today.

In a statement launching a month-long celebration of the oldest food chain's 95th anniversary, Mr.

Burger said that "fortunately greater convenience and greater economy go hand in hand as both spring from efficient operations."

As examples of developments contributing to both economy and convenience, he cited recent advances in the processing of canned foods, frozen foods, concentrates, and progress in packaging, freshness and quality controls.

"The American housewife is getting better food more appealingly offered than ever before," Mr.

"Economical Practices"

The A & P president stated that there is great need for economical practices. More than 60 per cent of American families had incomes less than $5,000 last year and they spent more than one-quarter of this on food," he said. "If they are to have sufficient nourishing food, and at the same time be able to buy the other things that make up the high standard of American living, we must provide them with a maximum of food value for every dollar they spend."

GOP LEADERS ARE WORRIED IN MICHIGAN

Editor's Note—This is another of several stories by roving Associated Press reporters analyzing the campaign in key states.

By DON WHITEHEAD
DETROIT (AP)—Unemployment in the automobile industry, fear of more job losses, and grumbling among dairy farmers form a triple menace today that is frightening to Michigan Republicans in the campaign for control of Congress.

GOP leaders in this normally Republican state are wary of the turn of economic events which has given Democrats their most effective campaign ammunition in years.

The Democrats, led by Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams and having strong organized labor support, are hammering hard on the theme that a Republican administration both statewide and nationally will mean more economic distress.

Depending On Ike

The Republicans' great hope is that Eisenhower's popularity will offset the dissatisfaction with the economic situation.

Present indications are it will be a hard fight all down the line with qualified observers leaning to this opinion.

U. S. Senate race—Sen. Homer Ferguson, chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, by a thin margin over Patrick V. McNamara in a hard fight. Some say Ferguson couldn't have made the grade had the late former Sen. Blair Moody been the Democratic candidate.

Congressional races—The Democrats to pick up one and possibly two House seats.

Heated Fight For 4th Term

But the real heat is being generated in the Republican campaign against Gov. Williams, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth two-year term as chief executive. Williams is young, handsome and popular and he was the only Democrat in 1952 to survive the statewide contests when Eisenhower carried the state by 320,000 votes. Williams won by 8,618 votes.

A good many Republicans say if they can beat Williams, then they can pull down the other Democratic candidates with him. Their hopes are pinned on Donald S. Leonard, 51, former state and Detroit police commissioner, who appears to be the strongest candidate the Republicans have put into the gubernatorial race in six years.

Seems Good Bet

The nonpartisan feeling at this stage seems to be that Williams is a good bet to win a fourth term.

One potent factor is that Williams and the Democrats have the support of the CIO and the AFL.

Ferguson said with some bitterness in his interview: "My opposition is solely labor. They control the Democratic party in Michigan—and they give us no breaks." Ferguson does have support from the AFL Teamsters Union.

An engineering formula rates one horsepower of machine energy as equivalent to the work of 20 men.

A modern railroad tank car may have a capacity of as much as 16,000 gallons.

Dangling Man A Mere Shadow Of His Pants

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"Hurry," the excited caller told police headquarters. "There's a man hanging from a window on the 12th floor of the hotel."

Police squad cars reported back. "Just a pair of pants drying—cancel call."

Freeman Francis, a clothes presser at the hotel, had washed the trousers and hung them out the window on a piece of wire to dry.

To the excited passerby the shadow of the swaying trousers on the side of the building looked like a man.

Oklahoma Community Repeals Blue Law

HOBART, Okla. (AP)—Fifty-three years of history has been changed by a new city ordinance here. The city council repealed an old ordinance that prohibited Sunday theater operation.

Following a deadlock and many defeats the issue carried by unanimous vote, clearing the way for Sunday use of the city's newly decorated Kiowa theater.

RED LION, Pa. (AP)—Delegates to the 166th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren Church were told Tuesday that planned remodeling and rebuilding within the conference will cost more than 1½ million dollars.

The estimate was made by Rev. Paul E. V. Shannon of York, conference superintendent, in his annual report at the first business session of the three-day conference.

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON (AP)—Believe it or not, the boys on Capitol Hill won't talk about the newest "new look" of the fashion world's pace-setter, French designer Dior, which is rocking the rest of the world.

Deadlier to the solons perhaps than the H-bomb is the subject of the H-line, so-called because that's what Dior's new style is supposed to make a woman look like. Yes, an H, says Dior. The Dior creations, much like American flapper styles of the early '20s—straight, flat, bustless, with waist-line at the hips—are to my mind, pretty frightening.

Senators and Congressmen ordinarily willing to talk about anything they think their constituents are interested in, take a firm stand privately but don't want to stick their necks publicly out on this one.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.), who's had a great deal to say about Sen. Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, says that "for the moment I'm concentrating on other matters" and "I don't know whether I'm competent to comment on this style."

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) went a bit further: "Why women fall for any fashion started some place else I don't know. Those designers are just trying to get women to buy more clothes. Some women will wear anything to draw attention. Take the hat fashions. They're hideous, absurd. I doubt if they'll ever get a whistle with this flat look."

Rep. Bender (R-O), who used to be in the ladies ready-to-wear business back in Cleveland, says he used to be concerned about Dior but found that women make up their own minds about fashion. "And listen, lady, I'm running for the Senate, and there are more women voters than men," he said. "Also I have a wife, two daughters and two granddaughter, and I know when to keep my big mouth shut."

Against Trend

Congress' youngest member, Rep. Wampler (D-Va.), is "definitely against" the new look, hopes

BOTANIST SEEKS USEFUL TREES

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—

Samuel H. Holzman, 69, is the John-ny Appleseed of Israel. His chosen mission is to find trees that will grow there and bear useful fruit—as the American Johnny Appleseed was to plant apple trees over the midwestern wilderness.

"This was my idea from childhood," Holzman said on a visit to U. N. headquarters.

A native of Jerusalem and trained in botany in Australia, he has his own nursery and experimental station southeast of Tel Aviv. For 49 years he has sought trees all over the world that will bear "exportable fruit" for Palestine.

He has imported camphor trees from Formosa, pistachios from Iran, apples and peaches from France and Italy, plums, mangoes and avocados from the United States—all told, more than 200 varieties of tree.

Two years ago, he found a tree that would grow in the southern desert, the Negev. It was the kurkyung, from Australia. He got what he claims were the first lot of banana shoots ever imported into Palestine 45 years ago from Singapore. He says a customs official wanted to see a "bill of health" for them. Holzman went to a doctor—not a plant-disease specialist, but a physician. The physician gave him a "bill of health" that satisfied the official.

Later he got some 50 different kinds of bananas from the Canary Islands, Madeira and British Guiana. Now they grow in many parts of Israel.

The best thing he ever hit on, Holzman said, were pecans. A U.S. Department of Agriculture expert suggested them 20 years ago and he sent some Texas pecan saplings. They grew well on Holzman's land even without irrigation while other trees died.

Holzman has been experimenting with different varieties of pecan ever since. He says that last year his 10-year-old pecan trees bore an average of 120 pounds of nuts each—three times as much as pecan trees produce in America.

He thinks pecans eventually will bring Israel more hard currency than her famous citrus crop ever did. He sees a natural market in England, and other parts of Europe.

MITCHELL, NIXON RENEW FEUD IN CAMPAIGN TALKS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell says Vice President Nixon's truthfulness is becoming an issue in the battle for control of the next Congress.

Mitchell yesterday renewed his public feud with Nixon, saying the vice president's campaign statements about security risk firings have been distortions amounting to "deliberate falsehoods."

Addressing the National Press Club in Washington, Mitchell asked whether President Eisenhower is "going to continue countenance" Nixon's statements.

Administration "Holly Engaged"

The vice president, swinging through Iowa, told a Mason City audience last night that the Eisenhower administration is "still hotly engaged against the spokesmen for big government and socialistic tyranny."

Nixon said the Nov. 2 balloting will determine "whether our 20-month task has been in vain."

At Watertown, N.Y., Sen. Irving Ives, the Republican candidate for governor, last night was the target for a shower of tomatoes at an open air rally. The fruit missed him but splattered his wife, Mar-

Ives said angrily the tomatoes "came by indirection straight from Tammany Hall . . . the outfit which is running this campaign on the Democratic side."

Opposed By Harriman

Ives' opponent is Averell Harriman, former foreign aid chief.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas jabbed at both major parties in a New Orleans talk. "The South has been too long ignored by one, too quickly forgotten by the other," and made to "crawl in humiliating submission" by both, Shivers said.

PREMIER SEEKS APPROVAL OF NEW ARMS PACT

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France has been authorized by his Cabinet to stake the life of his government if necessary on parliamentary approval of the London agreements for West German rearmament and sovereignty.

One of the ministers disclosed this action was taken at a three-hour meeting of the Cabinet Wednesday with President Rene Coty presiding.

It was agreed, he said, that the Premier would demand a vote of confidence in the National Assembly if it appears such a step is necessary to obtain ratification of the London accords.

Mendes-France was to report to the Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee later today on the proceedings and results of the nine-power conference in London last week.

Chances of the Assembly approving the plan for West German rearmament were greatly improved by the British pledge to keep troops on the continent indefinitely. There still is strong opposition among some deputies to the idea of a rearmed Germany.

The Foreign Affairs Committee earlier this year opposed the ratification of the European Defense Community treaty. The treaty died in the Assembly Aug. 30.

The Permanent NATO Council, in its regular weekly session here today, endorsed the London conference recommendation that the full NATO Council of foreign and defense ministers meet here Oct. 22.

The nine foreign ministers who met in London will reconvene in Paris Oct. 21 to go over the work their experts have done in the interim. They hope to be able then to request formally that the NATO Ministerial Council at its meeting the next day admit West Germany into the Atlantic Alliance.

SAYS HIGHERUPS GAVE SECRETS

PARIS (AP)—The central figure in France's defense leaks scandal insisted again Wednesday that "higherups" had passed important military secrets to the high command of the Communist party.

Andre Baranes, reporter for the fellow-traveling Daily Liberation, made this statement in the course of a closed grand-jury-type hearing which brought him face to face with his editor and boss, Emmanuel d'Astier de la Vigerie, pro-Communist member of the National Assembly.

Baranes originally said he transmitted important defense data to d'Astier and to Jacques Duclos, No. 2 French Communist, after getting it from highly placed civil servants working for the National Defense Council.

Emerging from the hearing shortly after noon, d'Astier told

CITES TRIUMPHS OF EISENHOWER POLICY

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., speaker of the House of Representatives, hailed the London Conference and settlement of the Trieste dispute as triumphs of the Eisenhower foreign policy Tuesday night.

Martin told a campaign fund-raising dinner sponsored by the Chautauque County Republican Committee:

"I think arming West Germany in the western defense is one of the greatest contributions to peace. The Soviets are not going to fight if they can't win."

Japan produces about 70 percent of the world's silk.

newsmen that Baranes' testimony was all "fables."

Police intend to confront Baranes and Duclos but attaches at the tribunal said such a session was not likely. Busy with preparations for a special session of Parliament today, Duclos requested a delay.

Ike Takes A Chance In Or Out Of GOP Vote Battle

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is in a spot where he can get caught in a backfire if he pitches into the political campaign and gets caught in a backfire if he doesn't.

But Republican leaders may persuade him to take a more active part in his party's struggle for control of Congress than he seems to have had in mind.

Except for a few scattered speeches Eisenhower apparently expected to be pretty untalkative through the campaign although slim Republican majorities in both House and Senate are at stake in the congressional elections Nov. 2.

GOP Victory Vital

Late last month he made a fast tour of the Far West, delivered a few political speeches and returned to Denver. He had scheduled only two other before election day: one this Friday and a get-out-the-vote talk on election eve.

Nevertheless, he left no doubt he considered a Republican victory vital to the success of his presidency when he said at Los Angeles Sept. 23 that election of a Republican Congress for two more years was needed to complete his "great program."

If he sat back after saying that, he might be accused by his own Republicans of having done much less than enough to help if they should lose.

The Chance He Takes

But if he does jump in and makes himself an issue, and his party still loses, the Democrats may be

Ten-Year Old Boy Collects Antiques

FARNHAM, Va. (AP)—While his playmates spent their pennies, nickels and dimes for things that appeal to most 10-year-olds, Elwood Schools saved his money to buy an antique—a buggy.

Mrs. A. F. Schools, Elwood's mother, says it took him about a year to accumulate the $5 purchase price. And he had to save a little more to buy paint to refurbish it.

The buggy—with shiny black body and wheels of Chinese red—is a novelty even in this rural area. Youngsters take turns providing the horsepower.

Elwood now is saving his money to buy a bicycle—the tandem type.

Malayan Warfare Proves Expensive

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The six-year state of emergency in Malaya to fight the Communist terrorists has cost them a total of 5,120 killed. A government statement says that security forces also have wounded 2,354 terrorists and another 1,398 surrendered.

This is not a one-sided war, however.

In the six-year period, the terrorists have killed 2,308 civilians and wounded 1,303. A total of 681 civilians are missing.

Troops have lost 431 killed and 799 wounded.

Casualties among police totaled 1,241 killed, 1,439 wounded and 14 missing.

TACKLING TUNA TAXES ANGLERS

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

MONTAUK, N. Y. (AP)—Sighted: one giant tuna, no pushers. Test lured: Two tuna. Hooked: Nothing.

Tuna fishing appears to be a waste of time when you come back empty and try to explain that going after the quarter-ton blue-fin is fun and sport combined.

Russ MacGroarty of Manhasset, one of the east's top tuna experts, couldn't make it but his sleek 37-foot Tumult was available. One could ask for more than that since it usually costs $100 to charter a boat for tuna fishing.

At Yacht Club

Roland F. (Mickey) McCann, who is a sound game fisherman all year either at Montauk or Bimini, put my two-car and no-boat family up for the night at the Montauk Yacht Club.

After breakfast, Vi, our daughter, Adrienne, 16, and Russ MacGroarty Jr., 16, set out aboard the Tumult with Capt. Bill Staros of Freeport and Palm Beach, his brother, George, and Mate Fred Solana of Fort Lauderdale.

We had some two dozen sandwiches, cold drinks and 200 pounds of mossy bunker or menhaden, which costs $7 per hundred.

Nebraska Shoal

As soon as we reached Nebraska Shoal about a mile off Rhode Island, Mate Solana began cutting up the chum and tossing it overboard. For two hours nothing happened.

Then the captain's brother sighted a tuna estimated at 400 pounds beside the boat. Young Russ jumped into the barber's chair and as the captain swung the chair with $1,000 pole and reel attached he helped Russ into a safety belt. That completed, the captain anchored the pole to the tuna chair.

Russ had caught 20-pound school tuna, his dad had taken two dozen giant tuna since 1950 and his mother, Gert, recently brought a 646-pounder to gaff. This was the boy's chance to tie his mother and beat his dad, who had made 20 trips off Montauk this year without success.

Young Russ moved as fast as a kid beating out a bunt toward first base.

But the blue fin refused to take the hook baited with the tail of a juicy moss bunker.

The horse mackerel turned closer to the boat, apparently to see how many people were fishing. He practically looked us in the eye. A tuna is a smart fish, as Capt. Staros soon proved.

Staros really wanted this fish, for it might have meant a good day's pay. Any tuna caught from the MacGroarty sport fisherman goes to the captain and at 18 cents a pound from the processor the take could add up to $100, a sum the captain keeps with his mate.

Staros then tried to cheat the tuna into biting on the 24-thread linen line. He got a spool of nine-pound test monofilament, a line hard to see in the sun, tied the tail of a moss bunker to the end and had the mate drop it over the side.

It went down about 10 feet. Then came a sudden pull. It was the wary tuna. The mate jerked the line on purpose and the tuna swam off with the bait. Now he might be mad, and bite at the hooked bait, we all thought. But the tuna was too smart for that.

"Pusher" Tuna

We waited 15 minutes. No tuna. We even started looking around for a "pusher," tunas that push along the surface in search for food. No pushers. Then Capt. Staros dropped over another test lure. Again the giant tuna made off with the bait.

We played with this tuna for almost an hour, or rather, he played with us. The last two hours were filed with anticipation but no strikes.

On the trip back to port we all decided the Long Island Sound and Block Island Sound waters have very few tuna and that the blue fish have become much wiser than in 1949 and 1950 when it was comparatively simple to boat one or two a day.

Only 3 Tunas

Only three tunas have been caught in these waters this year. Mrs. MacGroarty got a 646-pounder, Herm Isaacs of Bridgeport, Conn., took a 342-pounder and during the three-day U. S. Atlantic Tuna Tournament 35 boats got one tuna, that of a 667-pounder taken by Lou Marron of Brielle, N. J.

Maybe next year will be different, or maybe the tackle manufacturers will come up with a linen line that Mr. Tuna can't see. He surely saw the line dangling from the Tumult because he took everything else that wasn't tied down.

saying for the next two years Eisenhower himself was repudiated.

Some of his party's leaders have been showing increasing concern about Republican chances in November. Some have called on Eisenhower to be more active.

When he planned his comparatively quiet role in the campaign, Eisenhower and his advisers may have felt pretty confident the Republicans would have not too much trouble winning.

Face Hard Fight
If that was the mood of the Republican leadership, it has changed. Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, visited the President in Denver Sept. 21 and told him the party faces a "hard fight."

He added that Republican chances are good. Hall had predicted the Republicans would capture the House by 15 to 25 seats. The Republican leader in the House, Charles Halleck of Indiana, dropped in on Eisenhower Sunday. Later he told reporters his party would have a "tough fight" holding the House this year. He, too, predicted victory but on a more modest scale.

We had some two dozen sand-
